Janet Brooks Design

Designer/Owner:
JANET BROOKS, ASID

In business: 30 years

What is important: There aren't many things in life that give me more satisfaction than a job well done and making the very most of every opportunity each project affords. It is even more important to give clients all the time they need to feel well taken care of and very special—because they are.

What has changed today: In this unique time in history, luxury has taken on new meaning, and is now defined more in terms of value than excess. Waste is unacceptable; unwise decisions lead to loss of time and/or money.

What people should know about me: I love to see my clients' reaction when a project is complete and they know for sure that their "leap of faith" was, in fact, a smart choice in every way. In the end, the rewards of letting a professional designer guide the design process far outweigh any fears they might have of "letting go" of control in the beginning.
